Roosevelt and du Pont Clans Rally for Rites

Wilmington, Del., June 29 (AP).—Franklin Roosevelt, Jr., and Ethel du Pont will go through the motions of getting married late today just to be sure they know their routine for tomorrow's brief, solemn ceremony.

Before and after rehearsal, set for 5 o'clock, the younger members of the du Pont and Roosevelt clans crammed the couple's last betrothal day with gay parties, dashes about the country side to meet trains, and joyous reunions with friends.

Guests were arriving by train and motor. A few went to Owls Nest, spreading estate of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene du Pont, about eight miles from Wilmington and roughly half that distance from Christ Church, where the wedding will be held at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Much of today's carefree partying was informal, but a luncheon was scheduled for the young couple and several parties were on this evening's program. Chief of these was a dinner to be given by Roosevelt and Miles du Pont for the bridesmaids and ushers.

Hargrove, Negro, Arraigned for Hold-up in 1936

David Hargrove, who was recently brought back from Clinton, N. C., to face two indictments as a result of an alleged holdup last September at the Hepworth fruit stand at Marlborough, was arraigned in county court before County Judge Frederick G. Traver Monday afternoon.

It is charged that Hargrove and Frank E. Baldwin, two negroes, emerged from the brush on the night of September 26, 1936, and held up one Brooks who was at the stand that night.

With a shotgun they held up the caretaker and took some $30 and then disappeared. Baldwin was first picked up and he implicated the other man, who had left for the south.

A few weeks ago Hargrove was located in North Carolina and brought back to Ulster county. He was arraigned on a charge of grand larceny, second degree, and also under an indictment which in two counts charged robbery, first degree.

Asked if he had counsel the negro said he had not retained an attorney.

"Do you wish the court to assign counsel to you?" asked the court.

"There is no need for that," said the colored man, but because

Japs, Manchoukuo Protest Invasion Of Amur River Islands by Russians

Tokyo, June 29 (AP).—The Japanese government invoked the mutual assistance pact between Japan and Manchoukuo today and served a vigorous protest on the Soviet government against the alleged invasion of the Sennui and Bolshoi Islands in the Amur river.

Members of the Japanese military high command said they took a grave view of the situation. Their action, they added, would depend on the tone of the reply from Moscow.

The protest was presented to the Soviet government by Mamoru Shigemitsu, ambassador to Russia.

Japan asserted the islands in the river belong to Manchoukuo, and also demanded their immediate evacuation. The Amur river forms the northeastern boundary of the Japanese-occupied state of Manchoukuo and Siberia.

The Manchoukuo government was said to have made repeated protests against the alleged occupation of her territory, only to have them ignored in Moscow.

Some observers expressed the fear recurring border incidents, of which the occupation of Sennui and Bolshoi is regarded as the most serious, may create an open break between Japan and Russia.

The latest incident was reported to have occurred June 27 near Chaimu, where a Japanese was said to have been shot to death as he was rowing in the Ussuri river. He was a local government employee.

Irwin Promised Trial Based on Insanity, His Lawyer Tells Dodge

Dodge Chooses Ronnie Gedeon's Sister, "Real Victim" as Star Witness — Will Ask Electric Chair for Irwin.

OHIO MAID SORRY

Cleveland Scullery Girl Would See Robert—Says She's Sorry for Ronnie, Too.

New York, June 29 (AP).—Scarcely ten minutes after Mrs. Ethel Kudner completed her story of the mad impulse which led Robert Irwin to kill her mother, her sister and a lodger last Easter Sunday, a New York county grand jury handed up three indictments today charging the eccentric sculptor with first degree murder.

Still showing signs of the fear in which she had lived since the triple killing on Beekman Hill, Mrs. Kudner went before the grand jury shortly before noon. Five police officers followed in quick succession and District Attorney William C. Dodge emerged with the indictments.

Irwin, stroking his nose and grinning broadly, then was brought before Judge William Allen in General Sessions court for arraignment.

Samuel Leibowitz, nationally known criminal lawyer employed by Irwin, refused to permit his client to plead and won a delay in the arraignment until tomorrow.

"Your Honor we do not wish to plead at this time," Leibowitz told Judge Allen.

"In my opinion this man is crazy and before a proper plea, according to the code, is entered we like to have a 24-hour delay."

The request was granted without objection from Dodge.

Henrietta Koscianski, hotel pantry girl whose memory for faces was credited with leading to the sculptor's arrest, attempted unsuccessfully to enter Tombs prison to see Irwin, with whom she had worked in a Cleveland hotel.

She did, however, meet Joseph Gedeon, father and husband of two of the murder victims, and hugged the slight upholsterer, who was among the crowd assembled outside the grand jury room.

New York, June 29 (AP).—Strange Robert Irwin, who has confessed his expert sculptor's hands molded death for three, marked time in Tombs prison today while legal forces opened a bitter fight over the question of his sanity.

Insanity, it was expected, would be the defense of the 29-year-old former divinity student and erstwhile mental patient as District Attorney William C. Dodge, appeared before the grand jury today to seek three first degree murder indictments.

Dodge chose as his star witness Mrs. Ethel Kudner, sister of one of the murder victims, the beautiful "Ronnie" Gedeon, artists' model, and daughter of another, Mrs. Mary Gedeon. Irwin's confession listed her as the sole intended object of murder and as one he "loved and hated," whose death, he believed, would bring "the way out" of his mental sufferings. He "borrowed" the lives of the two Gedeons and a roomer, he said, in a plan to take the life of Mrs. Kudner.

Indicating he would seek the electric chair for Irwin, Dodge intimated Mrs. Kudner was ready to aid him in avenging the lives of the two women and a male roomer, Frank Byrnes, slain with them.

On the opposite side of the legal battlefield stood veteran Samuel Leibowitz, criminal lawyer who has saved 123 clients from the death penalty and who never lost a defendant to the executioners.

Dodge declared he expected Leibowitz to make an insanity defense. The lawyer himself declined to say so, but indicated in various remarks and actions that this would be his plan.

Clash Between Lawyers.

The first clash between lawyers came when Dodge sought to have Dr. Perry M. Lichtenstein, alienist and medical advisor to the District Attorney, examine Irwin in prison.

Leibowitz objected, insisting a court order would be necessary. Dodge then arranged to appear before Judge William Allen in General Sessions today to obtain an order. Dr. Lichtenstein said he would have to visit Irwin four or five times before he could report on his sanity.

To questions about the defense Leibowitz recalled the police two months ago had urged Irwin to surrender with the promise, in effect, that he would not be prosecuted as a sane man.

Irwin, meanwhile was not scheduled for another of the "public appearances" he appears to enjoy until 1:30 p. m. (E. S. T.) tomorrow, time set for his hearing before Magistrate Alexander Brough in Homicide court on charges of triple homicide. He was arraigned briefly yesterday.

There was little prospect the trial would come within at least three weeks. Leibowitz said he would ask at tomorrow's hearing that it be delayed until fall.

The attorney is scheduled to go

People's Front Seeks U.S., British Aid to Stop French Gold Exports

Nations Informed France Would Disengage Franc from Parity With Dollar and Pound—No Details Complete.

2 BILLION TAXES

Tax Measure Designed to Bring in 2 Billion Francs to Help Out Finances.

Paris, June 29 (AP).—The new people's front government, struggling with a financial crisis that caused France temporarily to leave the gold standard, today was reported seeking aid of the United States and Great Britain to stem the flight of gold from France.

Parliamentary circles disclosed this was one of the first acts of the week-old government of Premier Camille Chautemps to deal with the financial crisis.

Members of the Chamber of Deputies said also that Rene Brunet, undersecretary of state for finance, had informed them the government had advised the United States and Great Britain "of its desire to disengage the franc from the present parity with the dollar and pound."

They added that no details for accomplishing this had been worked out as yet.

(France, Britain and the United States are bound together in a tripartite monetary agreement designed to equalize their currencies.)

The statement on the government's position came after reports were circulated in parliamentary circles that the franc might be forced down to the level that existed during the administration of the late President Raymond Poincare—twenty-five to the dollar, or 4 cents for each franc, half a cent less than at present.

Conversation Stalled.

Socialist deputies, after a session of their parliamentary bloc this morning preliminary to Chautemps' plea for sweeping devaluations, said Rene Brunet, undersecretary of state for finance, had told them the conversations looking toward British and United States help already had been started.

The meeting was called behind closed doors to decide the Socialist attitude toward the new government's financial policies.

Details of the measures proposed to the United States and Britain were not disclosed.

Brunet was quoted as saying that new tax measures contented by the government would bring in 2,000,000,000 francs (about $88,000,000) annually to help the regime out of its fiscal morass.

The Chautemps government, having led France technically and tentatively off the gold standard, demanded of Parliament a free hand to decree the destiny of the franc in the present financial crisis.

Suspension of Dealings.

Tentative suspension of dealings in gold and foreign exchange payments—to protect the franc during parliamentary debate on financial reforms—was decreed by the new finance minister, Georges Bonnet, in a dramatically sudden move shortly after midnight.

New devaluation of the franc within the framework of the tripartite monetary accord with the United States and Great Britain was seen in usually well-informed quarters as a possible upshot of the turbulent financial situation.

Bonnet, former ambassador to Washington, published the sweeping moratorium decree in the official Journal less than 24 hours after assuming the finance post.

He arrived only yesterday from the United States on the urgent call of Premier Camille Chautemps to untangle France's monetary complications and restore economic equilibrium.

The Chautemps cabinet unanimously approved the new premier's financial program in an hour and a quarter session before the measures were submitted to the Chamber of Deputies in the afternoon.

The approval followed a summary of the situation by Bonnet but no details were made public.

27,000 Scouts Take Charge of Washington

Washington, June 29 (AP).—Boy Scouts took over the capital today. The last delegations of 27,000 "teen-age youths" were arriving for a ten-day national jamboree.

By sundown, their tented city will be ready for a program ranging from simultaneous flag-raising and nightly pageants to a review next week by President Roosevelt.

A bomb from a trench mortar will signal scouts and their leaders to unfurl 1,634 American, foreign and scout flags tomorrow at 9 a. m., formally opening the jamboree. A dozen combined scout bands and bugle corps will play the National Anthem.

As 15,000 scouts already in camp hopped into bed last night, a transplanted Florida palm swayed with the breeze, a Gulf Stream pelican broke away from camp and floated down the Potomac beyond recapitulation.

A group of Dutchess county, New York, scouts camped behind a reproduction of the President's Hyde Park home. Texas cactus sprang up in one section, and western chuck wagons housed ranchers' sons in another.

Search for Fiend Centers Today in Beverly Hills Area

Inglewood, Calif., June 29 (AP).—Search for a "sex fiend" who lured three small girls from a park, and choked them to death, centered around fashionable Beverly Hills today after a butler reported a frantic, blood-stained young man tried to sell him an automobile for $15.

The butler, in a fashionable home in Bel-Air, residential district adjoining Beverly Hills, said the youth appeared desperate when he rang the door bell last night.

"I've got to sell my car," the butler quoted him. "I've got to sell it. I'll take $15 and you can have it." When the butler hesitated the man added quickly: "All right, I'll take $10."

National Income Will Total About $35,000,000,000 for 1st Six Months

Washington, June 29 (AP).—Administration economists said today that national income, spinning upward since 1933, will total about $35,000,000,000 for the first half of this year.

This figure, based on incomplete business statistics, surpasses the $30,000,000,000 income of the comparable period last year but falls short of the $39,000,000,000 in 1933.

Besides increased business activity, authorities said, an important factor in the upturn this year has been a broad rise in prices.

The income figures represent the total distribution of money in wages, salaries, interest, dividends, royalties, rents and similar items.

Commerce Department officials said the business outlook for the remainder of this year is clouded with uncertainties, particularly those arising from labor disputes.

If labor troubles should ease, they said, business may be expected to continue the upturn recorded for the first half of the year, which has ranged between 10 and 15 per cent over between 1930 and 1933.

A federal reserve board report, surveying business conditions for the first five months of this year, said industrial production has advanced 117 per cent of the 1923-25 figure, compared with 97 per cent in the same period last year.

The factory employment index averaged 101 this year, compared with 92 a year ago.

Authorities Charge Gus Hall with Plans to Halt Steel Mill Operations with Series of Bombings—He is Missing.

13 NOW DEAD

Warren, O., June 29—Authorities charged today Gus Hall, C. I. O. organizer with being the brains of a plot to halt operations at struck steel mills here by bomb terrorism and throw all available forces into a hunt for him.

Quiet for a few days, the seven-state strike front erupted with violence.

Dynamite blasted water pipelines leading into the Cambria Works of Bethlehem Steel at Johnstown, Pa.

At Beaver Falls, Pa., one more death was recorded.

Operations were crippled at the Cambria works.

Deaths now total 13 in the strike called May 26 by the Steel Workers Organizing Committee against the Republic Steel Corporation, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, and the Inland Steel Co., and two weeks ago against Bethlehem Steel. The walkout was ordered after the companies refused to sign labor contracts with the C. I. O.

George Mike, 45, of Aliquippa, Pa., died at Beaver Falls of a fractured skull, received yesterday in a clash between pickets and deputy sheriffs at the Moltrup Steel Products Company plant.

He was struck by a tear gas cartridge as the deputies attempted to disperse 40 pickets who had halted 12 non-strikers returning to work at the plant.

To Make Inquiry.

District Attorney Robert E. McCreary said he would question eye-witnesses before determining what steps to take.

Frank Moltrup, president of the company, said it was "too bad" the entire blame rests with the pickets.

There was no attempt to reopen the Moltrup plant today.

Hall was specifically charged with the illegal possession of explosives. Three fellow unionists, said C. I. O. Solicitor George Buchwalter, have made statements claiming he plotted systematic bombings, including the destruction by high explosives of the homes of non-strikers.

The three are in jail on the same charge. Bond was set at $25,000. They are: Arthur Scott, John Borawiec, and George Bundas.

Warren union officials said they knew nothing about the charges against Hall and the others, except what had been reported in newspapers.

Whereabouts Unknown.

Harry Wines, a member of the strike committee, said Hall was not a fugitive, but had left town yesterday on business. No one at union headquarters could say where Hall could be reached.

At Pittsburgh, Philip Murray, chairman of the SWOC, declined any comment. He said he did not know Hall.

Officials said the explosives were stored in union headquarters in Warren for several days. Enough, they said, to wreck the entire block.

As to that, Wines asserted it would have been an easy matter for anyone to slip into the building unnoticed and conceal any bulky object, since both front and back doors were left open day and night.

Police Chief B. J. Gillen made it plain that no members of the strike committee were suspected of having any knowledge of the bombing plans.

Dynamite Plays Role.

(By The Associated Press)

Warren, O., June 29—Dynamite blasted the steel strike wide open today.

It sundered two vital pipelines that feed water to Bethlehem Steel's sprawling Cambria works at Johnstown, Pa., threatening tremendous damage and menacing thousands of jobs.

But at Warren, ricocheting from last week's "campaign of terror," it was the name of one of C. I. O. leaders, the brawny Gus Hall, on a warrant that paints him as the master mind and instigator of a plot of terrorism and destruction.

The two explosions at Johnstown, ripping away pipelines supplying water to the big Franklin mill and the Gautier plant—major units of the Cambria works—may mean the closing of the entire works for two weeks, General Manager C. R. Elliott said.

He immediately ordered five blast furnaces banked and closed 15 open hearths and the Franklin rolling mill. Water was temporarily turned into the company's lines from the Johnstown system.

Roads Closed
Two hundred state police closed every road leading to the works. Thus on both the Pennsylvania and Ohio fronts, quiet for days, every force of law was flung suddenly into a hunt for men wanted for the alleged destruction plot.

Here a warrant was issued charging Hall, director of the C. I. O. strike on the Warren-Niles front, with having plotted the dynamiting of bridges, the bombing of steel mills and the light and power company, and the destruction by high explosives of the homes of non-strikers. The warrant, no. 100, was backed by confessions of three of Hall's fellow unionists.

The Warren police, with three alleged terrorists already in jail, announced the hunt for Hall even as the back-to-work movement, which Hall and the CIO are bitterly opposing, picked up momentum not only in the Mahoning Valley but in Pennsylvania and in the Calumet industrial area of Indiana and Illinois.

First Leader Named
Even the sharp criticism that two congressmen—one Democrat and one Republican—voiced on the floor of the House yesterday against the President's and Secretary of Labor Perkins' steel strike policy was overshadowed for in all the oratorical blasting that has marked the 34 days of strike, this is the first time that a strike leader has been named on serious charges.

Chief of Police B. J. Gillen, in announcing that Hall was being hunted, said that police and national guardsmen, working together, had "smashed the dynamite ring" and that the "three men under arrest had confessed. The prisoners are Arthur Scott, John Borawiec and George Bundo.

das. All live in Warren. All were identified as CIO strikers. Chief Gillen signed the charges against them, against Hall and against two others not yet apprehended—Joe (Slim) Orawiec and Charles Myers.

Bail at $25,000
Attorneys appeared last night and demanded that bond be set for the three under arrest. Judge R. R. Speak of municipal court fixed bail at $25,000 for each prisoner.

The statement by Scott, a white-haired man of 40, said that Hall, who is head of the local strike executive committee had issued orders.

To blow up the homes of non-striking workers. To set off bombs on the property of the Republic Steel Corporation, the Light and Power Company, the Baltimore and Ohio and the Pennsylvania Railroads, a bridge at the Trumbull Cliffs furnaces (Republic owned), and to set fire to hundreds of gallons of highly volatile benzol stored near Republic's plant.

The city solicitor, George Buchwalter, said that the statements by the other two prisoners, Bundo and Borawiec, corroborated what Scott said.

3 Counts of Explosive.
Officers reported they found three quarts of nitro-glycerine, all that remained, they said, out of two and one-half gallons which Borawiec and Bundo got in Oil City, Pa., June 18.

One quart was found near the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks where slight damage from a bomb occurred last Thursday. That bombing, according to police information, was done by "two men imported from Cleveland."

The police said "enough explosive to wreck the entire block" was stored in a milk can on the second floor of CIO headquarters here for five days before the first explosions last Wednesday night. Stored there, too, the confessions said, were a machine gun and other weapons.

The milk can full of explosives was taken finally to Borawiec's home where, according to the confessions, the nitro-glycerine was put into eight-ounce bottles, fused, capped and taped into time bombs.

Bridge Plot.
The plot to blow up the bridge which leads to the Trumbull Cliffs furnaces was thwarted when a National Guard patrol car chased the machine in which the bombers, with several bottles of nitro-glycerine ready capped and taped, were riding.

In an effort to get rid of the bombs they tried to throw them into the river. The bombs exploded, damaging the bridge slightly and also the automobile. Guardsmen fired upon the terrorists as they roared away, but lost them in the blackness of the night.

The three quarts of nitro-glycerine seized by police—two at Borawiec's house and the third near the Pennsylvania tracks—are in the basement of the police station today—on ice. That was the way they were "preserved" at Borawiec's place, police said. Two gingerale and one whiskey bottle were used as containers.

The statements say that Hall, a blond, husky Scandinavian about 30 years old, talked the dynamiting plans over with Scott in detail.

Hall put up the money, they said, to get the explosive. The amount was $5. Police believe the nitro-glycerine was stolen from a shack near Oil City, but the statements do not say so.

Grading Ground's At Public Market

Owing to the rain storm of Monday the work of grading the grounds for the proposed public market on East Strand was not started until this morning when Superintendent David Conway of the Board of Public Works placed a crew of men at work. Several trees on the property will also be taken down. It is expected that the work of grading will be completed within several days.

NEGRO ACCUSED OF THEFT OF A COAT

John Buck Cunningham, 22, a negro of Danville, Va., was arrested by Officer Welch on Ann street last night on a charge of petit larceny. He is accused of stealing a coat valued at $40 from the car of Daniel Healey. The police say that when the negro was chased he threw the coat into the doorway of 9 Mill street. This morning in police court the hearing was adjourned until later.

Wants No "Hard Feelings"
New York, June 29 (AP)—Henrietta Koscianski, 19-year-old Cleveland hotel pantry girl whose memory for faces led to the arrest of Robert Irwin, accused in the Gedeon murders, has sung in a New York night club and told her story over the radio, and today she's looking for more adventures.

She planned to collect $1,000 reward offered by a detective magazine for Irwin. She saw a picture of Irwin in the magazine and questioned the hotel bar boy whom she knew as "Bob Murray." Her question led to Irwin's flight from Cleveland to Chicago, where he surrendered.

Henrietta hoped to see Irwin today, and also to meet Joseph Gedeon, husband and father of two of the three victims of the Easter Sunday tragedy.

She wanted to tell Irwin that "I hoped there were no hard feelings" and to express her sympathy for Gedeon.

Henrietta used to sing in a choir, and said she hoped to "get on the air singing." But she disclaimed any intention of spending her reward money in New York shops or entertainment spots. That is to go toward buying her family a home, she said and her father, a Cleveland truck driver, nodded vigorous approval. As for Irwin, "he's a very nice gentleman, and very intelligent," said the rosy-cheeked, serious-mannered scullery maid. But she's "very sorry" for Veronica Gedeon, slain artist's model, her mother and the roomer whom Irwin has confessed garroting and stabbing.

BELLEVUE, OHIO, FACED WITH DIRE FLOOD PROBLEMS

Bellevue, O., June 29 (AP)—Flooded Bellevue debated today the grim choice of deliberately breaking an earthen dike and allowing impounded waters to sweep through the city or of doing nothing at all and enduring the wet scourge for another week or 10 days.

City officials, farmers and representatives of the railroad whose embankment forms the dike met today to make a decision.

George Burgess, safety director of this northern Ohio city of 6,000, said mysterious underground rivers—which with heavy rains caused the flood in the first place—would not permit the surface water to drain away normally for several days.

Behind the railroad embankment is a lake estimated to cover 2,000 acres as deep as 30 feet.

SAFE CHICAGO

Chicago has suffered such a bad reputation because of its gangster wars in the past that it could hardly be blamed for bragging about something different. Its infant death rate is now the lowest for any of the country's major cities. In 1936 Chicago lost 38.5 infants in every 1,000 births. San Francisco was second with 40.1. Next in order came Buffalo, Cleveland, Milwaukee, New York and Philadelphia.

It is not a matter of climate or racial stock, but of good care of mothers and infants. America's record as a whole has been bad in this regard in the past, but is beginning to improve. With the big cities now leading the way in public health educational work, baby clinics, hospital regulations, and so on, the national figure should improve.

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE NEVADA

SYNOPSIS: Kay Cranston of the Lazy Nine hires a new puncher, Ted Gaylor, whom she finds in the forest desperately about to set a fire to get a job. Josh Hastings, who wants to buy the Lazy Nine and who Kay, invites her to the Flying Six when her ranch house and barn mysteriously burn. She refuses, disliking him. But, young sister Baba and Aunt Kate go. Kay finds she can't get the insurance money to rebuild it goes on the mortgage. Ted sets the outfit to cut its own lumber and rebuild without pay. Kay carefully sells this plan to Hastings before buying the only available timberland.

Chapter 12

Race To Old Man Warren's

"THERE'S something I want to ask you," said Josh Hastings. "Who was the fellow you were in town with today?"

"He's a new puncher I've just taken on," Kay dextrously evaded his grasp, and ran lightly down the steps.

"What's his name?"

Kay pretended not to hear as she swung into the saddle and picked up the reins. "I'll tell you under an attempt at a gaily nonchalant tone. Controlling her impatience with a mighty effort, she headed Flicker for the Lazy Nine at a leisurely can trot until she was out of sight of the ranch house.

Once safely hidden in a coulee, Kay swung about at right angles, and touched Flicker with her hand started off on a dead run for Red River.

"Stupid, garrulous fool!" she stormed at herself, as she urged Flicker on. "Why did I have to be so smartly about telling all my plans? It would be no more than I deserve if he did get that timber land away from me!"

Resolved to make every effort to undo the possible mischief her ill-considered action might have caused, Kay busily made her plans as she raced across the mesa.

Old Man Warren was an old prospector who lived in a shack just outside Red River. He had impulsively invested his savings some years ago in the timberland that was so necessary to Kay's plans, and had been cursing his luck ever since.

Kay had no doubt at all but that he would be only too glad to sell. But once let him get the idea that two people were after his property, and his price would skyrocket out of sight.

As Kay pulled in for a few minutes to let Flicker get his wind, she laughed at herself for her mad haste.

"I suppose I am as crazy as that looney coyote Josh Hastings was talking about," she observed. "Probably it hasn't occurred to him at all to buy up this land and I'm having all this panic for nothing. Just the same it's lucky Old Man Warren hasn't any telephone, or he might beat me to it, even now."

Spurred on by the sudden fear that Hastings might send a messenger to the store for Warren to go over and call him up, Kay urged Flicker on again. Gradually through the clatter of Flicker's hoof beats, she heard the insistent pounding of more hoofs behind her.

Sudden panic seized her, and she gave Flicker a touch of her spur, not daring to glance back, but her certainty that she would see Josh Hastings following post-haste over the mesa.

Impetuously she could feel the pursuing horse catching up, and at last, unable to bear the suspense and uncertainty any longer, she glanced around.

She gasped out her relief, and reined in slightly at the sight of the mysterious horseman. She had no idea who he was, but that slight figure couldn't be Josh Hastings. It would be better, she decided, to wait and see what he wanted, as he was obviously trying to catch up with her. His horse being faster than Flicker, he was bound to accomplish his purpose sooner or later, so it would be more dignified to slow down than to appear to be frightened into flight.

Gradually pulling Flicker in, she rode ahead more at ease, and as the pounding hoof beats behind her drew near, she reined in, and turned to face the stranger.

Piano Hardware Plant Is One of City's Industries

As the strains of the grand piano float out over the hushed audience, transposing into pleasant sound the masterpieces of Beethoven, Schubert, Schumann, Mendelssohn, Brahms, Liszt, or Chopin, the listeners little realize either the history or the work necessary to manufacture that instrument which holds them spellbound. And how many local citizens realize that much of the necessary hardware that is used in a piano is made right within the boundaries of Ulster county—in the city of Kingston.

The Charles Ramsey Corporation, manufacturers of piano hardware for 43 years and located in Kingston since 1911, supply some of the best known piano manufacturers in the United States with the hardware that makes possible the rendition of some of the classics of music that are enjoyed so much by the music lovers of the world.

The piano itself was invented about 1711 by Bartolomeo Cristoforo, a Florentine who lived in the years 1651-1731, although other claims to independent discovery have been made. The instrument evolved from its immediate predecessors the clavichord and the harpsichord, the former first being mentioned in a work published in 1404. The clavichord produced tones against the strings while the harpsichord rendered notes by plucking the strings with quills or strips of leather. The tone of the clavichord was weak and metallic, while that of the harpsichord was louder, hard and inflexible. Both instruments had the growing defect implied in the fact that neither could produce varied tones by the players impact on the keyboard. Then along came a new instrument called pianoforte, which made possible tone variation—the name itself implying such a feat because piano means soft and forte means loud. Later the name pianoforte was shortened to piano, and with the improvements made down through the years, the world today knows that piano as an essential to good music.

Harpsichords continued to be made until the beginning of the 19th century, and it is significant that up to 1799, the title-pages of Beethoven's sonatas bore the words, "For the pianoforte or harpsichord." Clavichords enough it was said until 1767 that the first 45 in performance on a pianoforte took place in England. In the last quarter of the 18th century the new instrument was gaining supremacy over its predecessors, and once fairly established, its development towards perfection was rapid.

EXOPHTHALMIC GOITRE

In the examination for overseas service if we came across a recruit with a rapid heart beat it was customary to make him jog or do a stationary run of 50 steps to see to what extent the exercise increased the heart rate. He then rested for 1 to 2 minutes and if the heart rate slowed it was felt that it was a sound down to its former rate or lower, heart. When the heart was fast we were suspicious of exophthalmic goitre.

Many recruits were naturally nervous and due allowance was made for this; but in some cases where the heart rate was persistently high, two simple tests of exophthalmic goitre (Grave's disease) were made. The first was having the recruit hold his hands up in the line with his shoulders. If the hands trembled or shook it was another sign of Grave's disease. The other was to have him follow a moving object with his eyes without moving his head. If the eyeballs came down and up as the object was lowered and raised (not being obstructed by a "bulging" eyeball) it was felt that no Grave's disease was present. And if there was no enlargement of the thyroid gland it was further evidence that Grave's disease was not present.

We now know that Grave's disease can be present without the bulging eyeballs, the tremor of the hands, or the enlargement of the thyroid gland.

Dr. Israel Bram, Philadelphia, in his book, "Exophthalmic Goitre and Its Medical Treatment," with 16,000 cases of Grave's under revision, 5,000 of which were under his personal observation during a period of twenty-five years, says:

"In our large series of cases there was no thyroid enlargement that could be felt in about 18 per cent; and in 22 per cent no exophthalmic (bulging eyes) existed. In 11 per cent neither the bulging eyes nor the enlarged thyroid gland (existed). This means then that when the heart rate is persistently fast, even if there is no enlargement of the thyroid gland and no bulging of the eyeballs, the physician would still be justified in suspecting exophthalmic goitre and making the metabolism test (rate at which body processes work)."

WHY WAIT?

There are many who worry about the future lately. Some people hesitate to make personal plans because they do not know what is ahead. Some representatives of business and industry are timid about the present for fear of future legislation. Young people postpone important decisions because of the same alleged uncertainty. Did any generation ever know the future, even when it thought it did? Yet men have dared and made plans and taken chances intelligently and courageously. This is no time to stop doing so.

"Century after century the unknown has yielded to attack," said President Tyler Dennett, of Williams College, to the graduating class. "We have no reason to believe the process has been arrested. You may view the unknown hopefully. This is not advice to be passively hopeful and optimistic, but to act in the present, confident that the unknown future can be handled when it comes. It is good advice for old or young. And surely it follows a proud American tradition."

ENGLAND COMING ACROSS

The British Commons, Open Spaces and Footpaths Society has observed a scientific phenomenon which is interesting but not immediately alarming. It has found that the British Isles are moving toward the United States. Erosion of the eastern coast line and the retreat of the Atlantic Ocean from the western coast line are doing the trick. It will be untold years, however, before the change is completed.

It seems almost a pity the thing can't be hurried up a bit. The British government would have fewer appalling international problems on its hands if those ancient islands were farther removed from the Continent of Europe. Perhaps it would be a good idea to have engineers look into the matter, with a view to joining the United Kingdom, including the Irish Free State, across the Atlantic and anchoring it somewhere off the coast of Canada.

Care of Small Fruits.

New York fruit has always held a favorable position among those who know flavor and quality. One reason is the care given crops by growers.

A revised Cornell bulletin gives the latest information on control of diseases and insects that affect small fruits. The fruits considered are raspberries and blackberries, strawberries, currants, gooseberries, and grapes. Growers will find the bulletin timely.

Chipmunk Homes

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

WILLY NILLY followed a family of chipmunks and they went along until they came to an old log. Underneath were some loose earth, some tunnels and Willy Nilly could see that they led to a big nest and even larger storage room covered over by small branches, so that the way to these was not so hard to find.

The nest looked very comfortable with its carpet of soft old leaves and moss, but Willy Nilly was amazed at the way it was planned. If he had been asked to find the nest he would have looked in another direction where there was some loose earth. Then some of the others showed him the homes they had back of rocks and still others had their homes in old trees—by the roots.

There were some dear little chipmunks, too. They were very young, and Willy Nilly could see how watchful the older chipmunks had to be, for although the young were allowed out now to run races up and down the trunks of trees they had not yet learned to be wise and careful.

"If it weren't for the weasels we wouldn't have to be quite so watchful of them," said Mother Chipmunk, "but even in the home nest we've got to be on the lookout. Those weasels can get through to anything."

"There are none around now," said Willy Nilly. "No, we've been very safe here," said another chipmunk. "Let's have a banquet in Willy Nilly's honor, chip-chuck-chuck," said Mr. Chipmunk.

"The idea is fine!" chattered the other chipmunks, and they ran to these storage rooms and had a banquet for the little man.

Doctors Give Telice Death Causes

Death from natural causes with a possibility that alcoholic poisoning was the cause, was given as the cause of death of Alexander Telice, whose body was found Sunday morning at the entrance to the Rosoff estate in Marlborough.

At first believed to have been asleep the man's body lay under a tree from some time Saturday afternoon until Sunday morning before it was found that he was dead. Berry-pickers first saw him lying on the ground Saturday afternoon but under the impression he was a tramp asleep no one went to investigate until Sunday morning when the body was observed in the same position. Telice had been dead more than 12 hours when state troopers were called. The hit and run driver theory was abandoned when no marks of violence were found on the body. This theory was first held since the body lay only a few feet from route 9-W. An autopsy by Dr. Ferguson and Dr. Taylor showed that there was no evidence of foul play and a laboratory analysis showed that death was not caused by violence. Indications were that alcoholism was the cause of death. Telice was identified through a bank-book which he carried and police learned later that he had resided in New York until a few years ago. He also had a sister-in-law in Pittsfield, Mass., where he lived some 20 years ago.

Artists Exhibit Feelings on WPA, Demand Action

Woodstock, June 29.—A demonstration protesting lay-offs on the Ulster County Federal Art Project was held at the office of Eugene Ludins, supervisor, on Monday at 1 o'clock by artists on the project. About 20 project workers presented Mr. Ludins with a list of demands and recommendations drawn up by John W. Bentley, Emmett Edwards and Walter Smith, a committee elected for the purpose. Most of the project workers were unwilling to sign the communication so responsibility was assumed by the committee. The communication is as follows:

Woodstock, New York, June 28, 1937.

We, the workers of the Ulster County Federal Art Project, consider that the present methods of dismissal are unsound.

That Mr. Ludins strongly recommend to Washington that a competent neutral board of review and the workers, shall be established, which shall have the power to order all needy employables to be retained upon the project.

That pink slips shall be withheld until the review board, if established, has completed its work, or until such time as selection upon a newly established board has been completed, the effective date of these pink slips be extended, always allowing for two weeks dismissal notice to the employees.

That those who have been dismissed on the non-relief basis may immediately apply for certification to the district relief bureau, and upon such certification shall be considered in the same category as all other relief personnel. That their dismissal date be extended until such time as the relief bureau determines their status. That all dismissed non-relief employees shall have the option of review by the review board.

That if this review board as recommended by Mr. Ludins is not established Mr. Ludins will request Washington to establish a different method of dismissal. That we definitely do not agree with any method of dismissal other than lack of need as a reasonable basis for dismissal from a work-relief project.

That we demand the immediate reinstatement of Emily Poire on the Ulster County Federal Art Project, who was dismissed April 13, 1937, due to a clerical error.

(Signed) Committee of Ulster County Federal Art Project Workers, John W. Bentley, Emmett Edwards, Walter Smith.

Mr. Ludins was asked to communicate the demands to Washington. This he refused to do, saying that he could voice protests only through his immediate superior, Mrs. Audrey McMahon.

The workers did not press the matter and were satisfied with insisting that he send a telegram to Mrs. McMahon immediately. Mr. Ludins was escorted to the telephone office by the committee and some of the project workers. He sent the following telegram:

"Mrs. Audrey McMahon, Delegation of 26 project workers and press at office demands that I transmit following to Washington. Have agreed to transmit to Washington through you with my full endorsement.

Eugene Ludins."

DEATH WATCH

Holding the blanket and ball left behind by their daughters, Melba, 9, and Madeline, 7, and a playmate when they disappeared from an Inglewood, Calif., park, Mr. and Mrs. Merle O. Everett are shown awaiting news of the girls, whose bodies were found later in a ravine.

house ostensibly to get the money he telephoned police and the stranger fled.

Sex-Crazed Man Sought

Inglewood, Calif., June 29 (AP).—Grim peace officers of the city, county and state united today to hunt a sex-crazed man who lured three young girls to their deaths.

Ravaged, strangled with rope, their small bodies were found by Boy Scouts in a deep ravine yesterday afternoon.

Two of the three girls were sisters, Melba Marie Everett, 9, and Madeline Everett, 7. Their playmate was Jeanette Marjorie Stephens, 8.

Last Saturday morning they were playing in Centinela Park, close by their homes. Then they left some of their playthings and ran across the grounds, calling out they were going to hunt rabbits.

By night, County Autopsy Surgeon Dr. A. F. Wagner reported, they had been attacked and murdered. Several suspects were quizzed and released last night. A pick-up order for the detention of Othel Leroy Strong, 22, was issued by Captain William Penprase of the sheriff's bureau.

Shortly after the order was issued, authorities in Olympia, Wash., said Strong is at present working near there in a tie mill. Sheriff L. C. Huntamer of Olympia visited Strong and quoted him as saying he had not been in California this year.

Worked Saturday, Monday.

Harry Simmons, mill operator, said Strong worked last Saturday and yesterday. The girls disappeared Saturday.

The Washington disclosures followed an announcement by officials in San Diego a man seized at nearby Del Mar was jailed on a vagrancy charge.

Deputy Sheriff Jack Cornell at first said the man answered the description of Strong, but this identification was quickly discarded.

Strong had pleaded guilty to contributing to the delinquency of a 14-year-old Inglewood girl last October 1, and was on probation.

Condition of Bodies.

The bodies of Melba Everett and Marjorie Stephens, the older girls, were badly bruised and torn. That of Madeline showed but few bruises and scratches.

A sword of the discovery spread and two manacled suspects were questioned, an angry crowd formed and threats of lynching were heard. A second mob gathered last night.

Mrs. Merle O. Everett, mother of two of the girls, collapsed and was placed in the care of a physician when she learned of their deaths.

"This is terrible," said Everett. "They have taken two of our five children—our little babies. No! No! I don't believe it."

Residents 3 Months.

"We came here three months ago from Boston," he said. "We wanted to bring our children up in the open and sunshine of California. We moved near the park so they would have a place to play. We never dreamed this would mean the deaths of our little girls."

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Stephens, parents of the other girl, likewise were torn with grief.

From Sacramento, Gov. Frank Merriam called upon all law officers and citizens to aid "in the apprehension of this killer."

Olive Everett, 11, sister of two of the slain girls, identified a photograph of Strong, selecting it from others, Campbell said.

Names Strong

"That's the man who came up to us in the park Friday and asked us to go hunt rabbits with him," she said. They had refused then.

Olive said he told her that if she would get some rope he would show her more tricks.

"I got the rope for him at the hardware store," Olive told police.

Captain of Detectives Ed Muir said he was convinced that Olive's two sisters were strangled with the rope she unwittingly provided.

Kenny Anderson, 7, told Campbell this same man had asked him Saturday morning to hunt rabbits with him.

Scouts Find Bodies

"He showed me how to tie a lot of knots in a piece of rope," said Kenny. Four Boy Scouts, Bob Brown, 14, Frank Fortune, 13, Don Morsant, 14, and Winslow, 15, made the grisly discovery yesterday afternoon.

"There's one!" called Brown, pointing to the bottom of a 40-foot ravine, 5½ miles northwest of Los Angeles, between Inglewood and Culver City.

The girls' bodies, a rope knotted about the throat of each, were found a short distance apart in the sandy bottom of the ravine. Their shoes had been placed in a neat row close by.

of the seriousness of the charge a plea of not guilty was entered until such time as the defendant can consult with Michael Nordone, who was assigned to him by the court. Nordone also appears for Baldwin. The matter was adjourned until Wednesday in order that Mr. Nordone could talk with Hargrove.

Assistant District Attorney N. LeVan Haver asked the court to dismiss indictment No. 2310, an indictment which charges George A. Hendricks with abandonment and failure to provide for his family. He said that the indictment charged that in May, 1936, Hendricks abandoned his wife and family and the indictment charged violation of Section 480 and 482.

Mr. Haver told the court that since the charge had been brought the wife had secured a divorce which Justice Schirck granted and that provision had been made for weekly support. Under the circumstances Mr. Haver said Mrs. Hendricks did not desire to prosecute the criminal action and he asked that the indictment be dismissed.

missed. Judge Traver said that he would dismiss the indictment on filing of a written statement as to reasons. John M. Cashin appeared for Hendricks.

Court recessed until Wednesday at 10 o'clock.

Guild Discussed

Chicago, June 29 (AP).—Publishers and editors of daily newspapers convened here today in a special meeting called by the presidents of 10 regional and national associations to discuss the American Newspaper Guild. In the convention call, the association presidents said the Guild had voted to affiliate with the C.I.O. and was demanding closed shop contracts. "The issue," they said, "is whether or not the newspapers of this country should submit to the Guild's demand for a closed shop."

Wave of Strikes Looms.

New York, June 29 (AP).—The scheduled layoffs Wednesday of 11,800 WPA workers threatened today to cause a wave of sit-down strikes. The city projects council, WPA supervisors' union, has demanded establishment of an appeals board like the one set up for the WPA arts projects. Secretary Oscar Fuss of the council said the dismissals "will mean starvation and misery to untold thousands," and promised "there will be hell to pay if this dismissal program is carried out."

Calls Are No Good.

New London, Conn., June 29 (AP).—Federal agents came here today to question a woman in connection with two telephone messages from a person who represented herself as Mrs. Alice Parsons, missing Long Island matron. New London police reported the woman, a New London resident, was brought to headquarters last night, but that no charges were lodged against her. Officials expressed the belief the two telephone calls, both received last night, were a hoax.

Securities Drop, Commodities Up

Favorable industrial news and improvement in the situation in some of the steel plants closed by labor trouble did not have the effect upon the market yesterday that might have been expected and there was a sharp drop in securities. There was continued pressure against rails which dropped 0.89 point, to 50.17 on the Dow-Jones average; industrials were down 166 7/8, off 1.71 points for the day; utilities declined 0.61, the average dropping to 25.45. For the first time since January, 1936, the average for 30 bonds fell below par, the average being 99.71. Government bonds declined sharply.

On the other hand, commodities averaged higher, with wheat up the limit of five cents in Minneapolis and Winnipeg, on receipt of continued unfavorable North American crop reports.

A further increase in demand for structural steel is reported and steel mills in the Chicago area expect to maintain production at a high rate this summer. In the Youngstown district, as workers returned to struck plants, steel output jumped to nearly 60 per cent of capacity, compared with only 29 per cent a week ago.

From Paris comes announcement that the government has ordered the closing of the securities and commodity bourses, although this is said to be for a day only, as the new Chautemps cabinet presents its emergency financial program to Parliament, asking power to deal with the fiscal crisis by decree.

Statements of banks in 101 leading cities for week ended June 23 shows business loans off $18,000,000, the first decline since latter part of April.

Auto parts makers in Chicago area, including Borg-Warner, Bendix Aviation and Stewart-Warner are expected to show profits for the current quarter of from 10 to 25 per cent smaller than the preceding three months. Bendix may not show an increase over a year ago.

Phillips Petroleum is expected to show profits of around $12,500,000, or $2.75 a share for the first six months, compared with $7,336,302, or $1.77 a share a year ago. May show record sales and profits in 1937.

Kroger Grocery & Baking sales for week ended June 19 were up 5.2 per cent from a year ago. Department store sales in metropolitan area for first half of June were up nine per cent from a year ago.

Addressograph-Multigraph reports net of $1.31 a common share for five months ended May 31 compared with 76 cents a year ago.

Beatrice Creamery Co. had net of $248,765, or 34 cents a common share, in May 31 quarter, vs. net of $90,644, or 90 cents on preferred stock, a year ago.

North Pacific's net loss after fixed charges, in May, is reported at more than $700,000.

Minor violence and collapse of federal mediation marked the steel strike as back-to-work movement continued.

Bethlehem's Cambria plant in Johnstown claimed it was operating on a normal scale, despite heavier picket lines. A miners demonstration was reported planned for tomorrow.

Ford Motor Co. denies as absolutely untrue every charge filed against it with the NLRB.

New York, June 29 (AP).—Leading shares worked upward in the stock market today as buying support appeared in modest volume.

The rally started soon after the opening with steels and rails in the van of the advance. A brief spurt of selling pared some gains, but the forward move carried through and near the final hour prices were near their best.

Transfers were at the rate of about 600,000 shares for the day. France's suspension of gold payments seemed to have little effect, the move long having been expected. Brokers reported modest buying on balance from abroad, but no evidences of a rush for American securities.

Indications that backlogs of the steel mills were larger than expected, aroused buying interest in this section. U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Youngstown Sheet & Tube, after losing ground in early dealings, came back for small advances.

A notable performer was Santa Fe, which at one time was up about 3, reacting a bit later. New York Central, Southern Pacific, Great Northern Preferred and Baltimore & Ohio all were gainers.

Metal shares were sluggish but Anaconda, Kennecott and American Smelting managed to add a trifle. Western Union, which has been under pressure for the last few days, picked up a point in morning trading.

Others tilting forward were General Motors, Chrysler, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Electric Power & Light, Westinghouse, General Electric, du Pont, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Texas Corp., and Amerasia.

Sending A Model To Do A Man's Job

By The AP Feature Service

WHEN the modern engineer and scientist wants to do a big job right, he doesn't rely on blue prints and mathematics alone. More and more frequently, he makes a small imitation of the real thing and tests it under actual working conditions. If it stands the gaff, chances are that the life-size structure will, too.

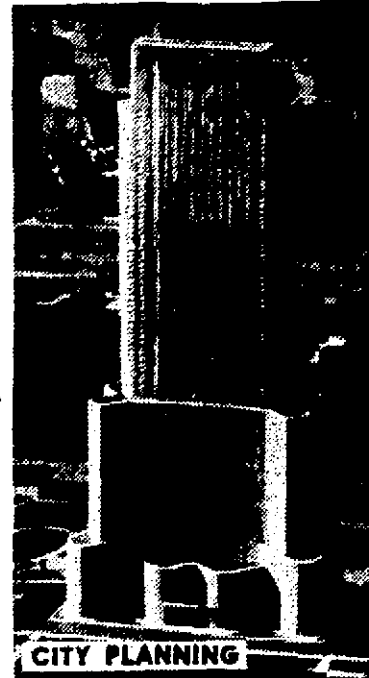

AVIATION

Nobody gets hurt when a model plane goes into a spin in a model downward air stream produced in a wind tunnel. It's a safe, convenient means of uncovering "bugs" before it's too late.

RIVER CONTROL

Since rivers often are more temperamental even than machines, engineers use miniature streams to test proposed changes in course. This model paved the way for a cut-off in Mississippi.

Kingston—George Brent as Bill Austin is the star of "The Go Getter," with Anita Louise as his leading lady, and overcomes mountains of difficulty in winning her hand. In the picture Anita is the daughter of a rich lumber and navigation man, who gives Brent a job, through the intercession of Anita, after he quits the U. S. Navy and is looking for a livelihood. Brent wins in a hard struggle to the top of the business firm and also takes the hand of Miss Louise in the end. On the stage, "Winners on Parade," featuring stars of amateur radio contests with Joe Martin as announcer.

Kingston: "Oh, Doctor" and "Speed to Spare." The oft used story of a man about to die who suddenly discovers he will live, is shown in the first feature at the Kingston with Edward Everett Horton in the starring role. It is a wildly funny offering, filled with gags and lousy humor, and a fine supporting cast helps Mr. Horton considerably. "Speed to Spare" is a story of the automobile race track wherein two brothers vie for racing honors and the love of a girl. The crack-up scenes are terrific and the whole show is sensational and melodramatic. Eddie Nugent, Dorothy Wilson and Charles Quigley are featured. Orpheum: "Mind Your Old Business" and "Beloved Vagabond." A comedy and a musical minstrel are offered at the Orpheum, the first with Alice Brady and Charles Ruggles, the second a foreign made film starring the once great Maurice Chevalier. Together the two films make a satisfactory program.

Tomorrow

Broadway: "Make Way for Tomorrow." One of the best selling novels of the last few years becomes this season's cinema masterpiece at the Broadway in a real and poignant story that reaches the heart of almost every American family. The question of the aging parents, what the children are to do in the matter of supporting them in the sunset of their lives, these matters of such concern are handled with a warm and delicate touch in "Make Way for Tomorrow." For the play tells of two old folks who are forced to be separated after living together for 50 years. One goes to the family of a daughter, the other to the family of a son. The separation, the loss of their home, the realization that they are burdens upon their unwilling children, all work toward the play's eventual solution to the problem. Victor Moore is brilliant in his first serious screen role and Beulah Bondi lends excellent support along with Fay Bainter and Barbara Reed. A Paramount picture.

Kingston: "The Case of the Stuttering Bishop" and "As Good as Married." Double features continue at the Kingston, the first a murder mystery with an unusual plot, the second a romantic comedy of average entertainment value. Donald Woods and Ann Dvorak are featured in the mystery melodrama while John Boles and Doris Nolan are the stars of the other attraction.

Orpheum: "That Girl from Paris." A blend of opera, jazz and comedy, are to be seen and heard at the Orpheum with Lily Pons, Gene Raymond and Jack Oakie co-featured in a story of a budding singer who is helped along by a couple of American boys to reach her goal. The music is good, the acting above average and the comedy is unusually well staged.

Noonan Awarded $262 by Traver

John R. Noonan of Walden was awarded a verdict amounting to $262 in an undefended action tried in county court Monday afternoon before Judge Traver. The case was tried before the court and a verdict was directed at the conclusion of the testimony. Earle H. Houghtaling appeared for the plaintiff.

Mr. Noonan testified that his car, being driven by his father, was proceeding along Albany avenue and Ulster avenue on December 25, 1936, when a truck owned by James R. Metcalf and operated by Seth Heddon jumped the curb and collided with the car, doing damage which cost $200 to repair. Other damages amounting to $62 for car hire, towing and incidentals brought the amount to $262. At the close of the testimony County Judge Frederick G. Traver directed a verdict in the amount sued for and against the owner of the milk truck as well as the operator.

There was no other civil action ready for trial and an adjournment was taken until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, when No. 54, William J. Deyo and Florence M. Jacquin, doing business as Deyo and Jacquin, against Hugo Schroeder, a negligence action, will be ready for trial. Cashin & Ewig for plaintiffs and Joseph H. Forman for defendant.

Jurors were excused until Wednesday at 10 a. m.

Industrial Peace Goal of State Act

New York, June 29—The New York State Labor Relations Board, after a meeting Monday morning with Governor Herbert H. Lehman at his residence at 820 Park avenue, made the following statement:

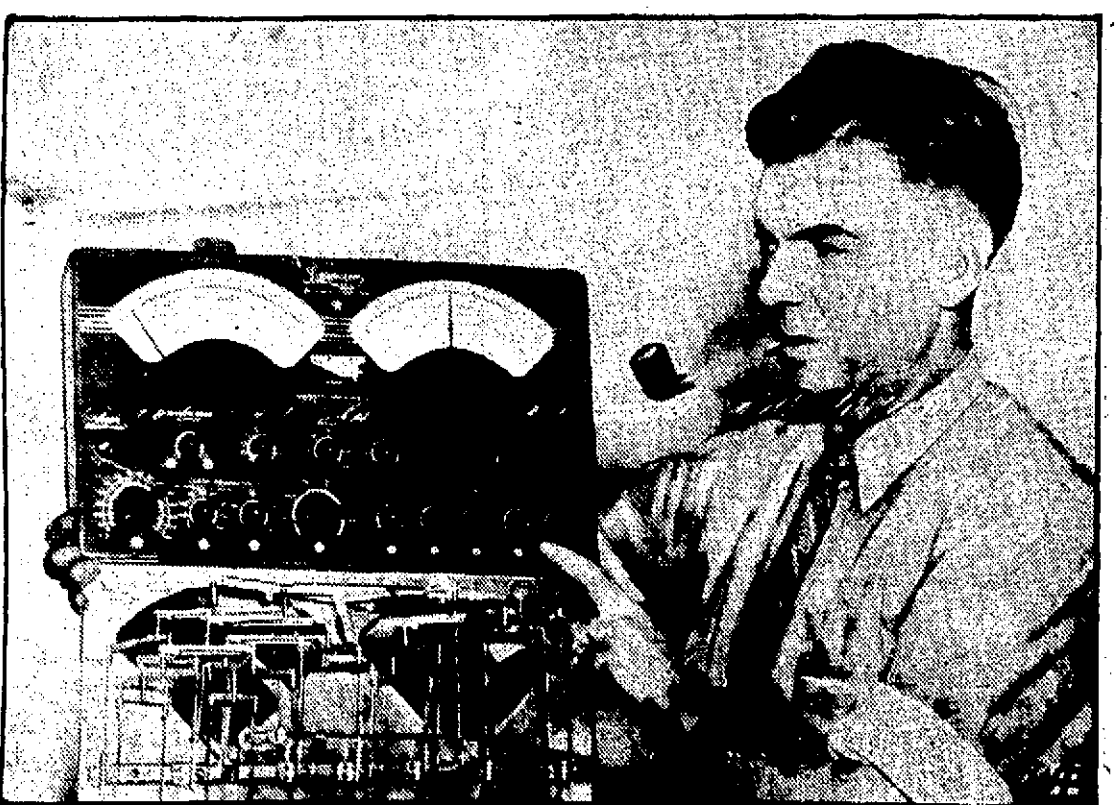

"The preservation of industrial peace is the primary object of the State Labor Relations Act. The statute guarantees to employees in intra-state trade and industry the same rights of self-organization and collective bargaining that the Wagner Act gives to workers in interstate industry.

The State law is substantially the same as the Federal Act held constitutional by the United States Supreme Court in its historic decisions of April 12, 1937. The State Board expects to avail itself of the experience of the National Labor Relations Board.

"The State Board will rapidly establish offices in Albany, New York city and Buffalo, select its limited personnel and adopt rules and regulations. It hopes therefore to be ready to assume jurisdiction over the most urgent cases on or about July 20. Meanwhile it has established temporary quarters at 342 Madison avenue, New York city.

Auto Deaths Rise in May
Albany, N. Y., June 29.—Auto fatalities throughout the state continued to rise during the month of May with the one exception of New York city where a decrease was noted. The monthly statistical review of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles today showed a total of 7,861 accidents resulting in 238 deaths and 9,415 injuries.

Two encouraging factors noted by Commissioner Charles A. Harnett were the decrease in the percentage of pedestrian deaths and the absence of a fatal accident in which a drunken driver was involved.

The report further revealed a considerable increase in the number of fatal accidents involving female drivers and drivers of both sex under 25 years of age.

Rural New York representing 22 per cent of the state's population was responsible for more than 50 per cent of fatal accidents occurring during May. New York city with approximately 52 per cent of the state's population was accountable for 19 per cent of all fatal accidents.

Williams Lake Is Improved Resort
Williams Lake on the Fifth Stinneswater in the town of Rosendale is open for the summer season and bathers and others who visit this popular out-door resort will find that the Messrs. Williams have provided numerous improvements for the public since last season.

Since taking over the lake resort several years ago, Williams Lake has been gradually developed into one of the most popular water resorts of the county. Naturally a beauty spot on the clear spring-water lake at Rosendale, Mr. Williams has during the past few seasons developed the beach by erection of modern bath houses, a refreshment center, entertainment hall and other amusement devices. The huge slag piles which were deposited on the shore of the lake by the once famous Rosendale cement industry, have all been removed and in their place are a sandy beach, baseball diamond, large parking grounds and an amusement center which is patronized by local people as well as summer visitors.

During the past winter and spring a new and modern dwelling house has been erected on the shore of the lake where the proprietors of the resort reside, and where during the season guests are accommodated. Along the beach front by the house has been erected a picturesque cement retaining wall, lawn house and docks have been improved.

An open air table-tennis hall has been opened and the sandy beach has been extended. For those who do not desire the tan which comes from the open beach a large covered pagoda facing the sandy beach has been erected and fitted out with benches.

Last year larger and modern bath houses were opened and this year improvements have been added to the bath house. Cement walks now connect the bath houses and beach, new docks and floats have been erected and the diving tower has been improved.

Work is now nearing completion of new handball courts and the picnic grounds have also been improved. Improvements have also been made along the shallow beach which is fitted out for the smaller folks and the deep water swimming section has been extended and safety ropes installed.

Since the resort closed last fall for the season Gust and Walter Williams have been busy building and improving the resort for the present season. This year the beach front is in charge of Fred Dippel and a corps of life guards.

Sunday at 5 p. m. there will be a beach apparel fashion show by the Bathing Shop of Kingston with "trotter" county girls modeling the latest creations by Parisian and Hollywood designers. Parker, Budge In Grant Eliminated Women's Matches

Wimbledon, Eng., June 29 (AP) — With two American Davis Cup players, California's Don Budge and Milwaukee's Frank Parker, safely to the semi-finals of the men's singles championship, the tennis tournament shifted today to the quarter final round of the women's title play.

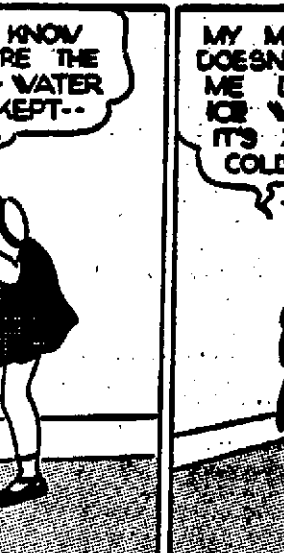

Dorothy Round of England opposed the defending champion, Helen Hull Jacobs, and Alice Marble, United States champion, faced the year's runner-up, Mrs. Hilda Krahwinkel Sperling of Denmark and Germany.

Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, Germany's No. 1 star, and Henry Alfred (Bunny) Austin, last point remnant of Britain's great up winners of a year ago, are the other semi-finalists in the men's division. Von Cramm and Austin play in one match tomorrow while Budge and Parker meet in the other.

Budge continued his terrific play by blasting Australia's Vivian McGrath out of the tournament, 6-1, 6-1. He has not yet lost a set in his tournament of the women's tournament played prior to the Wimbledon engagements.

Parker's defeat of Heinrich Henkel, second ranking German, was a surprise. He outlasted the German in a terrific five-set duel, 7-5, 4-6, 4-6, 6-2. He had better luck than his teammate, Bryan (Bitty) Grant, of Atlanta, who lost to Austin, 6-1, 7-5, 6-4. Von Cramm came through in five sets over the Australian veteran Crawford after Crawford bid Crawford for the match in the third set. The scores were 6-4, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2.

Mrs. Gehrig's Storing Up Wrath For Heckler At Lou's Last Game

By Mary Elizabeth Plummer
(Second in a Series)

New York (AP)—One of Mrs. Lou Gehrig's diversions as a young girl in Chicago was to go to White Sox park when the Yanks came to town, and say mean things about Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig under her breath.

She gaily recalls how she and her friend, Mrs. Harry Grabner, wife of the White Sox vice president, used to mutter when the Yankees were winning, "Hope you break a leg. . . . There's the Dutchman. . . . Hope he drops dead. . . ."

But Gehrig, the great hitter, "the iron horse of baseball," kept right on scoring, and the brown-haired girl in White Sox park soon repented her words at the altar.

Holds Her Temper
Now a model baseball wife, she sits in the stands—unperturbed outwardly if someone takes a verbal pot shot at Gehrig. Her recipe for that moment is to look at the program, or think, "Now, what shall we have for dinner tonight?"

The hardest thing a player's wife has to do, she says, is to sit quiet "when someone behind you calls your husband 'Yellow.'"

"If you can get over that spot," says Mrs. Gehrig, "you can face anything."

Sometimes, she says facetiously, she's saved a retort for Lou's last game. Then, just before he retires, she'll turn to the heckler, who always seems to be sitting behind a player's wife, and inquire, "Say, would you like a sock in the nose?"

Baseball, books and music are interests the Gehrigs share. They spend long evenings reading in their New Rochelle, N. Y., apartment, which has period furniture, one solid wall of books and a grand piano.

Writes Songs
Gehrig, the Apollo of baseball—tall, with curly dark hair and dimples—puffs his pipe and reads biography, or Tolstoy, his favorite author.

MRS. LOU GEHRIG: Keeps Her Thoughts To Herself

His wife, who looks like Helen Vinson, the movie actress, reads psychology, which she has studied for years in her free time.

They often go together to summer evening symphony concerts after a game. She not only plays the piano, but writes music, and has published some songs, including, "We Write A Love Song Together, And I'm Singing It All By Myself."

A great Wagner fan, she has heard all the "Ring" operas, and last year heard "Tristan" five times.

Let's Him Handle Business.
"I have outside interests, and I think home is more interesting because of it," says Mrs. Gehrig, trim-looking in a gray tailored suit.

As a businesswoman—she was formerly Eleanor Twitchell, personnel manager of a smart Chicago store—she became convinced a wife shouldn't mix too much in her husband's business. So Gehrig manages his baseball. She never has urged him to "hold out" on salary.

When the Yankees go south for training, she and most of the other wives accompany them and "go into training, too." They retire early, and get up early.

The girls usually play golf, or go to the beach. They seem to have an unwritten agreement to avoid baseball talk. "If the wives 'cliqued,' and did a lot of gossiping," Mrs. Gehrig explains, "they could ruin a team's chances."

Tomorrow: Dizzy Dean's "Manager."

Vanderbilt Race Has Leader Ready

New York, June 29 (AP)—Tazio Nuvolari, the iron man from Italy who won the Vanderbilt Cup race last year, is back in America and preparations for the renewal of the classic Saturday can go on with the king on hand and ready to go.

Tazio's presence, he headed a delegation of six other European stars which arrived yesterday, makes the thing official. He will test the track today but will not qualify until later in the week. The Americans are due to resume qualifying trials today after a day's interruptions. Only one, Billy Winn of Detroit, has done anything thus far. He qualified Sunday by running his three 10-mile jaunts into one 30-mile trial.

Nuvolari doesn't think much of his chances this year, and blames this on the revamping of the

Skeet Scores at Ulster Gun Club

Because of the absence of Roswell Coles, secretary of the Ulster County Gun Club, who attended the Lordship, Conn., skeet shoot Sunday, scores made Sunday at the local club's skeet field were late in coming in.

Seven gunners participated in the shooting and 425 targets were thrown. The June team match is practically completed, but the skeet field will be open Sunday, July 4, at 1:30 p. m., and those team members who have not finished their strings of 100 targets will have an opportunity to do so.

Following are the scores marked up at the local skeet field:

J. Hyatt	20-18=38
C. Skinner	19-18=37
E. Smith	16-19=35
E. Davenport	18-16=34
F. C. Chaffee	15-16=31

Sail Planes Vie For Flying Honors

Elmira, N. Y., June 29 (AP)—Two Lithuanian pilots, Bronius Oskinis and Jonas Pyragius, received today approval of the United States Department of Air Commerce inspectors to compete in the eighth annual national soaring contests being held here.

Grounded since their arrival here Friday while the inspectors examined their sail planes, the pilots planned to take to the air immediately.

Another who planned an early flight today was Harvey Stephens, Hollywood movie actor, who has entered his home-made plane in Mrs. Warren F. Eaton's $1,500 contest for the best American built glider in the meet.

Meantime, Richard C. duPont still awaited favorable flying conditions for his projected 180-mile trip to Wilmington, Del., to attend the wedding tomorrow of his cousin, Ethel, to Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr.

Once forced to return a half hour after he had taken off from atop Harris Hill, duPont planned to again attempt the flight he says he can do in five hours, "under favorable weather conditions."

Meantime, Leslie Barton of Newark, N. J., was under observation in an Elmira hospital for slight injuries received when his sail plane went into a spin on a ridge a few miles from Harris Hill.

Barton was stunned by the force of the impact, but hospital authorities said his injuries apparently were not serious. He will remain in the hospital until tonight.

Romans First to Offer

Circus Entertainments
The name circus was first applied by the Romans to the circular inclosures wherein their games were performed. Later it came also to designate the performances given within them.

The Circus Maximus, as rebuilt by Trajan, was said to have been capable of holding an audience of 500,000. Eight large circuses were built by Roman emperors. All are now heaps of ruins, if not wholly obliterated, except that of Caracalla, outside the city near the Appian Way, which is in a fair state of preservation.

The Romans varied the monotonous spectacle of gladiatorial fights and hand-to-hand struggles between wild beasts and men, with mimic sea fights and baiting of crocodiles, in at least two of their circuses, which could be flooded with water. And in milder moods they had chariot races and performing horses, wrestling matches, rope dances and other acrobatic acts.

But the circus in something like the form we know seems not to have existed until the Eighteenth century. The popular amusements of medieval times were processions, passion plays and annual fairs, these often being enlivened with side shows of monstrosities or a wild animal or two.

The first circus established on the modern plan was that of Philip Astley, at Lambeth, London, about 1770. An equestrian himself, he had engaged others and given shows. Then he built a rude stadium near Westminster bridge, and so popular did his circus become that he was able a few years later to build a handsome amphitheater which was opened in 1780. The place was burned three times, in 1794, 1803, and 1842, each time being immediately rebuilt.

Most of those in America have been traveling circuses, and this type has grown in our country to proportions which far exceed anything in this line in Europe.

Small Boy—What is college bred, daddy?
Daddy (with a son in college)—They make college bread, my boy, from the flour of youth and the dough of old age.

A New Zealander swears he saw this one on a tombstone in Ireland:
Here Lies the body of Ella McCrowder,
Who died from drinking a self-lit powder.
Gone from earth to her heavenly rest.
She should have waited 'til it effervesced.

"They also serve who only stand and wait." But things happen while you wait.
Wife—All right, dear, I'm ready to go now.
Hubby—Well, you'll have to wait until I have again.

The lover the world loves is the one who has not loved too often.
Friend—You say the plane fell two thousand feet, and still you were not injured?
Aviator—Yes, that's right.
Friend—How could that happen?
Aviator—Oh, I wasn't in it.

There are no two things in the world alike.
Little John Smiggs ordered his meal in a restaurant. Half way through eating the waiter came quietly to his table.
Waiter—Excuse me, sir, but I'd advise you not to hurry with your meal.
Smiggs (exclaiming)—Good gracious! Why shouldn't I?
Waiter (solemnly)—Well, sir, you're sitting on a prize fighter's hat, but he doesn't know it yet.

Every good word you say for Kingston means an additional good impression for your town.

Millionaire (speaking to body of students)—All my success, all my tremendous financial prestige, I owe to one thing alone—pluck, pluck, pluck!

The chief difference in men is their ability to use ideas which they find. . . . Very few men create ideas. . . . They are generally the creation of some one else, like a story that is heard and passed on.

Mr. P.—What is your son in college?
Mr. R.—A halfback.
Mr. P.—I mean in studies.
Mr. R.—Oh, in studies, he's away back.

Life is never free of troubles—even the fellow who lives on a bed of roses has the thorns with which to contend.
Tea was first known in the English speaking world under the name of "chick."

Miniature Dogs
Miniature dogs can be bred from most small breeds. Often dogs of smaller breeds are crossed to reduce size. Miniatures were bred more than 400 years ago. Though now generally mere lap dogs and freaks, they were originally used to ferret out rats and other burrowing animals. They are delicate animals and require much care. All are rare, since they usually have but one puppy in a litter.

Registrations for Home Camp Open

Registrations are now being received for the Y. W. C. A. Stay-at-home Camp for children, which will open on Wednesday, July 7, and continue through Wednesday, July 28. This camp will afford to grade school children an opportunity to enjoy the privileges of a regular camp without the necessity of going away from home. The program is under the direction of the Y. W. C. Look at LaSalle!

V-8 $1095

EASY ON YOUR POCKETBOOK

AFTER YOU GET IT, TOO!

THE biggest thrill of LaSalle ownership comes after you commence to drive your car. It is LaSalle's economy of ownership and operation!

You would naturally expect a big 125-horsepower V-8 engine to use more gasoline. But, due to Cadillac engineering, you will find in LaSalle a wholly new degree of operating efficiency. You will probably notice no increase in gasoline costs at all. And no car could be more sparing in its use of oil.

*Delivered price at Detroit, Mich., $1095 and up, subject to change without notice. Model illustrated 2-Door Convertible Coupe $1290. These prices include all standard accessories, Transportation, State and Local Sales Taxes, Optional Accessories and Equipment—Extra.

And when it comes to service costs, you'll encounter a real surprise. Not only does the average cost of LaSalle service operations compare favorably with that of cars which cost even less to buy—but, being a Cadillac product, LaSalle does a great job keeping out of the service station!

If you can afford any new car, you can probably step up to a LaSalle V-8.

Why not come in today and look at LaSalle? Your present car will likely make the down payment.

The Oklahoma City chamber of commerce, planning to dedicate one of its programs to the state of Arkansas, wrote to the Little Rock chamber of commerce just to make sure the name wouldn't be pronounced wrong. "Everybody now pronounces the name of the state 'Arkansas,'" said the clarifying letter, "and it is little less than high treason to pronounce it differently."

CAN VEGETABLES NOW

Now's the time to can vegetables for delicious winter soups, stews and salads.

No need for long hot canning seasons. While you whisk through the breakfast dishes, process a few jars at a time, once or twice a week.

Three-inch baby carrots, pulled when you thin your carrot beds, or young carrots from the market, canned whole, will melt in your mouth. Remove tops, wash and plunge carrots—in a sieve or frying basket—in boiling water to cover. Simmer 5 minutes. Simply rub off the skins with a clean dish cloth or cheese cloth. Pack in sterilized jars and steam in a pressure cooker, 25 minutes for pints, 40 for quarts.

Baby carrots are attractive, too. In this vegetable salad mixture—1 cup each of carrots, celery, snap beans, peas, pickling onions—at this season you'll have to buy a jar of onions ready

1 sliced red pepper. Simmer mixture 4 minutes. Pack in jars, adding 2 tablespoons of vinegar for each pint. Fill jars with boiling water, seal and process in pressure cooker 45 minutes for pints, 55 minutes for quarts.

In canning mixed vegetables all must be processed the length of time required for the slowest cooking vegetable.

Our 40-page booklet, NEW WAYS OF CANNING FRUITS, VEGETABLES, AND MEATS, gives a handy time and temperature chart, full directions for pressure cooker, hot-water bath or heat-controlled oven methods. Also recipes for canning meats. All about preserves, catsups, relishes and chutneys.

Send 15c for our booklet, NEW WAYS OF CANNING VEGETABLES, AND MEATS, to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 109 West 19th street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of

EPIDEMIC... Tears Are Contagious Among The Very Young

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW
AP Feature Service Writer

New York—Falling off the saw isn't such a calamity despite Billy's howls. Set him on his feet, and tell him it's really not worth crying about.

That's the advice given by Miss Angela Capraro, head teacher in the Kips Bay Nursery school in N. Y. Most mothers, she says, are oversolicitous in dealing with their children.

"Adults have to get used to life's hard knocks," she asserts, keeping an eye on 20 or so happy youngsters playing about the roof of the nursery. "They aren't able to cry about them. It's the same way with children. After a few tumbles, they won't think of crying."

Keep Close Watch

But the method isn't so brutal as it sounds. The nursery school teachers don't ignore their fearful charges. They're right on the spot when the catastrophe occurs, in case of serious damage. But they try hard not to do too much coddling.

They are firm if one child is hurting another.

"Children strike out because they can't express their wishes," Miss Capraro explains.

"Charlie there (pointing to a child in blue overalls) grabs toys right away from other youngsters. He doesn't know enough to ask for what he wants. We have to tell him. We have to explain to Peter, whom he just scratched, that Charlie didn't mean to hurt him.

"It takes time, which many parents don't have, and plenty of patience. Tears are contagious too. Let one child burst forth, and all his neighbors join in. They have no reason for crying. They're just imitative."

Good For Mothers

Now and then nursery school methods clash with the home system. One week several mothers came to assist the staff as preparation for a prospective open house. The sympathetic parents were emotionally exhausted at the end of the day. Every child's hurt they made into a mountain. Instead of realizing it was a mole hill.

But it's an excellent plan, Miss Capraro thinks, for mothers to come to the nursery school. "They develop an objective point of view in regard to their children when they see them among others. They learn to repress their impulses to comfort the youngsters."

The result of this lack of coddling?

More independence and initiative in the two and three-year-olds. Kips Bay youngsters wash their own faces and hands; hang up their own washcloths in the proper place; feed themselves; think up their own games; and are better controlled.

Rice of good table quality, a desirable flavor and a tender, flaky product when cooked, is the goal of United States Department of Agriculture plant breeders. In cooperative work at the Rice Experiment Station at Crowley, three varieties that have the required qualities, Fortuna, Rexoro, and Nina, have been developed and distributed to commercial growers.

William McAndrew Dies
 Mamaroneck, N. Y., June 29.—William McAndrew, who in 1928 was ousted as superintendent of Chicago schools by former Mayor William "Big Bill" Thompson as being "in the pay of Great Britain," died yesterday at his home here. McAndrew, 73 years of age, had been editor of "Educational Review" since his dismissal by Thompson as "a stool pigeon of King George." He was a native of Ypsilanti, Mich. More than two years after McAndrew was ousted as superintendent of schools, the Superior Court of Chicago, exonerated him of charges of "insubordination."

Canning Will Be Demonstrated in County, Aug. 10-1

Through the efforts of the Home Bureau units, the housewives of this vicinity will have an opportunity to learn some first hand information on the approved methods of canning meats and non-acid vegetables.

MRS. ALICE V. B. MARKS

On Tuesday, August 10, at Phoenixia, and also on Wednesday, August 11, at Modena, Mrs. Alice V. B. Marks, chairman of the canning center committee of the relief program, will be present to demonstrate the methods used in the canning of various meats and vegetables. She will endeavor to teach the housewife how the surplus foods of the summer may be safely and wholesomely preserved for the winter table by the use of whatever equipment the individual might have.

Mrs. Marks was graduated from the Pennsylvania State College after a four year course in home economics, receiving her B. S. degree, and later she received a Master's degree from Columbia University. She has traveled throughout Pennsylvania and New York, supervising various classes in canning and fostering exhibits of many Home Bureau units. A similar demonstration was conducted in this territory last year by Mrs. Marks, whose instructions were well received by those who availed themselves of the opportunity to learn more about canning and food preservation.

Keresman Asks Civil Service Aid

protected by the people they serve by extending civil service to those who do not enjoy that protection.

Policemen in all cities, towns and county departments, special police districts, and villages in the counties of Westchester, Nassau, Rockland and Erie have civil service protection. This leaves a large percentage of policemen unprotected who run just as great a risk in the performance of their duties. Perhaps, the policemen in the smaller communities are not called upon to run this risk as often but when they do face the criminal they run a greater risk.

The policemen in the larger city has the assurance, when he faces a desperate criminal, that other policemen are nearby to come to his aid on call or on hearing the discharge of his revolver. The policeman in the small village when faced with such a situation knows he stands alone, and the criminal also knows this and will not hesitate to shoot it out in the belief that if he can get past this man his freedom is assured. This same criminal would hesitate to do the same in a city because his shot would bring other policemen and he would surely be apprehended.

We advocate civil service for all policemen in the interests of better service—that law will be enforced without fear or favor, and pensions—so that our men who take great risks may feel that their families are protected. We believe that some method should be found to bring about the extension of these benefits to the policemen in the smaller municipalities who do not now enjoy such protection. The municipalities affected will reap the benefit of better police service.

Even though a policeman is technically off duty at times, he has a 24-hour responsibility as a police officer. In the past five years over 20 per cent of the awards made for heroic duty in the cities went to policemen who were off duty at the time of their heroic act.

Chapter 479—1936 making civil service mandatory in villages in certain counties already mentioned. This law may be amended to include all villages without cost to municipalities.

We are not committed to any special formula in extending civil service. We mentioned that the constitution of the state required that all municipal employees be under civil service. The demand of the people for the best possible police service may be met through the extension of civil service without delay. The machinery has been set up by the state under the Wicks-Morris bill and should be extended to include all village policemen.

We suggest that the village policemen who have been rendering good service in villages operating under Section 188, as is evidenced by their reappointment during a number of years, should have the protection of civil service regulations.

We ask that this Conference of Mayors record this convention in favor of civil service for all village policemen not now covered and also the state police. We suggest that your secretary, the Hon. William P. Capes, be asked to transmit a record of your favorable action to the members of the next session of the state legislature and to his excellency, the governor.

We hold our police convention in White Plains, beginning September 8, and would appreciate if the secretary of the Conference of Mayors would send a copy of your favorable action on this matter and I am sure our convention will confirm it. I may also state that the legislative committee of our organization will sit down with your representatives early in the next session and come to an agreement on the formula through which civil service may be extended.

On behalf of the Police Conference of New York State which comprises all the policemen in the cities, counties, towns and villages, I thank you.
